ACI Update

A Semi-Annual Newsletter of Aquatic Consultants, Inc.

First Word

The economy is slowly starting to show some signs of improvement and fortunately, ACI looks to benefit, as several new projects are on the horizon. Its been a difficult 18 months and we've seen a lot of changes in our company, but I believe these tough times have made us a better company. We've streamlined many of our internal processes that will allow us to be more efficient than ever, all without sacrificing the quality that you are accustomed to. Thank you for your continued confidence in ACI as we have worked through these changes and we look forward to serving you in 2010 and beyond.

Project Update - Nambe Pueblo

In February 2010, ACI completed the construction of a new irrigation lake for the Nambe Pueblo that will be used to supply water to landscaping and baseball fields in the new Buffalo Range Subdivision. The lined lake receives water from an adjacent acequia, which is then pumped to the recreational portion of the new subdivision. In the future, the Pueblo may stock fish into the lake to create another community amenity. We teamed up with Heads Up Landscaping on the project and they are now building the baseball fields and completing the landscaping portion of the project.

Project Update - Rancho La Barberia

In May 2010, ACI completed the renovation of a recreational lake on a private ranch near Santa Fe, NM. ACI construction crews dredged sediments and removed organics to make the lake deeper and more accessible. We cleared brush and trees from the dam, raised the water level by modifying the spillway, installed a new bridge, installed a new boat dock, and created access points around the lake. Aeration and artificial habitat were added to the lake and once completed, rainbow trout were stocked. The owners of the ranch are very pleased with the finished product and plan on several summer vacations to the lake.
